

PASSION AND PURPOSE

(Revised from Chiseling a Leader)

This powerful presentation inspires personal and professional excellence through courage and determination. Emmy Award-winner Brandon Lee Rudat shares his life experiences and the valuable lessons he has learned about leadership. He teaches that an individual must overcome their fears, believe in themselves and find their inter-passion to be a true leader. He inspires his audience to have courage, chase big dreams and never look back.

SPEAKER BIOGRAPHY

Brandon Lee Rudat is an American journalist, motivational speaker and fine art artist. He found his calling at an early age, when he discovered he wanted to pursue a career in broadcast journalism. He began as an intern on the Today Show in New York City and as a producer for WNBC's Today in New York, where he covered the 9/11 terrorist attacks and aftermath. Despite being told that he was too young, or didn't have the right look or voice, it was Rudat's passion that fueled his fire to persevere. He won an Emmy award in 2007 and has been nominated for nine others. He credits courage and determination for advancing him in his profession.

Rudat is also an accomplished artist who uses his paintings as an outlet for his creativity. His work is featured in galleries in Atlanta, Los Angeles and Miami. Select pieces have also been featured on HGTV and on display at The W Hotels.

“Brandon has taught me that leadership is more about passion than a position.”

-Brian Townley, Author of “Inspiring Leadership, Unleashing Motivation in the Workplace”
